

Hi my name is Campbell Forlong. For years I was a community worker and pastor who loved to run long mountain trails, get stuck into DIY projects, and go on adventures with my family. A few years back I recall telling my wife Lorraine, 'I have loved my life, have not regrets, but if I had life over again I'd have loved to have been a builder.' Fast forward a few years and I find myself living in Raglan, running long mountain trails on my days off, and building. Yes, I am now a builder, and I didn't have to live life over again. I still love adventures with my family, and try to live a life of love in response to Jesus' amazing love for me. Each day as I head out the door to work, and put on my builder's apron, I look forward to loving the people of my community by fixing something broken, creating something new, or renovating something old. Some days I get the feeling I'm still pastoring, but just with a new set of tools.
